

Fast Five

Think of as many words as you can that describe you.

Write them in a list and try to use ambitious vocabulary!

Fast Five Answers

Here are some suggestions:

ambitious, caring, creative, considerate, determined,
extrovert, friendly, genius, glamorous, happy, healthy,
helpful, introvert, etc.

Can I create my own portrait in the style of 'Wonder'?

Discussion

Talk about the answers to these questions with someone at home (if you can).

How does this represent Auggie?

What do you think about the image?

How could we make our own versions?

Key Points

The image is intentionally cartoon-like and out of proportion (see the ears and eye).

The title 'Wonder' wraps the eye like an eyebrow.

Discuss your thoughts.

What can you see?

Read some of the words around the faces.

Which pictures do you like?

Why?

Your own front covers

Lesson 1

Keeping in the style of 'Wonder', you will draw yourself in the centre of your page.

Lesson 2

The words in the background will be the things that make you who you are. Think about your personality, hobbies, passions, etc.

Follow these steps to sketch an outline of a head

Task: Sketching the outline of a head

- Look in a mirror at the outline shape of your head and sketch it.
- Look at your hair line and sketch this on your head shape.
- Look at where your eyes are positioned. They are almost half way down from the top of your head!
- Draw one eye!
- Include the eyelid, eyelashes, pupil, iris and the effect of light if you can. Look at the slides for ideas on how to do this.
- Look in the mirror again and position the outline of your ears in the right place.

When you have drawn a sketch of your head, ears, hair and one eye:

Write your name around the eye where an eyebrow would go.

Once you have done this, add colour.

You can use any media to do this, such as coloured pencils or paints (if you have any).

Leave the background blank until the next lesson.
