

Past tense verbs	Adverbials of time
First person	Informal language
Description of feelings

Dear Diary,

What a wild day it's been! I woke up to the sound of the hunters shouting that they'd spotted a deer. I tumbled out of bed, grabbed my spear and ran to join them.

My heart was pounding in my chest as we crept silently towards the deer. I felt a bit guilty as the deer was peacefully munching grass. Just then, the signal was given and we all jumped to our feet and threw our spears.

In the afternoon, everyone got to work. I was put in charge of scraping the hide to make new clothes while the others made new tools out of the antlers and cooked a delicious stew.

After dinner, everyone sat around telling old stories and singing songs. I'll have plenty of work to do tomorrow to finish the clothes I started making!