Can I use past and present
tense?

When writing any piece of work it is important for you to use the correct form of verb, or 'doing' word, to indicate whether something has happened; is happening; or is going to happen. These are called tenses, and are either past, present or future.

For instance, 'I am eating' has a different meaning to 'I was eating' , as in one instance the person is still chewing, whilst in the other the meal has already been finished and the plate is in the washing up!

Write the sentences below, changing them from present tense to past tense:

Present = I am writing a story.

Past = I was writing a story.

Present = He is playing in the park.

Past =

Answer

Present = I am writing a story.

Past = I was writing a story.

Present = He is playing in the park.

Past = He was playing in the park.

Have a go...

Present = We are shopping.

Past =

Answer

Present = We are shopping.

Past = We were shopping
