A powerful rumble shook the ground.	The city now looked like a warzone.	The smell of ash filled the sky.
The glorious sun was slowly fading away.	As the light kissed the clouds, they blushed, becoming pink illuminations that stood and watched the street below like nosey spectators.	An icy breeze swept across the forsaken street.
In the distance, a portal shone, sending soft, golden beams of light out across the evening sky.	The ancient city was as old as time.	The echoes of desperate screams faded with each house.

Here some examples of sentences which use colons and semicolons along with our key descriptive skills: they would fit well in a descriptive paragraph.

The usually calm citizens awoke to the most horrifying scene: their street was slowly turning to dust.

Silence soon fell: the people had accepted their inevitable doom.

In the distance, a mysterious figure appeared; his presence did nothing to comfort the terrified people.

A sudden tear ripped through the cobbled road; it stopped at an empty doorway.
